

These materials have been written and/or compiled by elementary education students* at Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory, North Carolina for the Little Read during the fall semester of 2007, as a part of their coursework.

It is our sincere hope that this collection of resources and materials will be used to support instruction before, during and after Jon Scieszka's visit this spring. Every attempt has been made to properly cite compiled resources and to edit for errors in writing conventions. We apologize for anything we missed during the editing process.

The materials found in this resource are for the express use of those educators connected with the Little Read. Use or duplication of the materials by all others without permission of The Little Read is prohibited. Inquiries regarding use may be directed to:
